GREENSBORO TELEGRAM.

VOL. VII. NO. 16. GREENSBORO, N. C., FRIDAY, AUGUST 17, 1900. Price Five Cents

RECEIVED IN WASHINGTON.

THE RELIEF OF PEKIN ANNOUNCED.

No Particulars Are Yet Given But a High Official States That the Government Has Received News of the Relief--The Conference on August 7th Decided to Push on to Pekin and the Japanese Led the Way, Followed By Russians, Americans and British.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Washington, Aug. 17.—A high official is authority for the statement that the government has received a dispatch announcing the relief of Pekin.

A dispatch received at the Japanese legation here from the foreign office in Takio says that at a conference of the commanders of several forces it was decided to push on immediately to Pekin. After the conference at Yang Tsun on August 7th, the Japanese headed the forces, followed by the Russians, Americans and British in the order named. On account of the inadequacy of commisiary supplies, the French troops were compelled to remain in Yang Tsun, while small bodies of Austrians, Italians and Germans turned back to Tien-Tsin.

The British consul at Tien-Tsin says he has information from Pekin to the effect that Li Ping Hing had arrived at the capital with 10,000 troops, and after an audience with the Empress, had left with them for an unknown destination.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a called meeting of Branch No. 630, N. A. L. C., of Greensboro, N. C., the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, God, in His allwise providence and wisdom, has seen fit to remove by death from our midst our beloved brother and fellow carrier, John D. Burch, of this city, therefore, be it resolved,

First, That it is with profound regret that we are separated from our brother carrier.

Second, That while the Greensboro letter carriers deeply mourn his death and will miss his friendly co- p ration in this branch of association, we are sensible of the loss sustained by the association at large, and those relatives and friends who are near and dear to him.

Third, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved widow and orphan in the loss of their beloved husband and father.

Fourth, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our association, and that copies be sent to the bereaved family of our deceased brother, the editor of the Postal Record, the Greensboro dailies, and the Morning Post.

By order of Branch No 630.

A Suggested Improvement on South Elm Street.

To the Editor of The Telegram.

The Houston, Caldcleugh, Hendrix and Greensboro Hardware Co. buildings could be raised one and a half or two feet, or the first floors of these building could be raised without injuring the buildings or store rooms, or new floors might be laid on those already there 18 inches above them. This would not make store rooms but a little less, not enough to injure the appearance. Then the grade of the street on that side could be raised correspondingly, which would not only make it useful, but add much to the appearance, besides carrying off the water in heavy rains and preventing its accumulation there on the sidewalks and running into the stores, as is sometimes the case.

The cost of this improvement would not be very great, but the benefits and appearance would Think of it, City Daddies, and let the city engineer estimate it. R. K. G.

FOUND DEAD IN THE FIELD.

A Colored Man, Alone Near Gibsonville, Dies Suddenly.

Dr. J. P. Turner, county coroner, received a telegram last night asking him to go to Gibsonville and hold an inquest over the body of Andrew Richmond, colored. The message was signed by John Richmond, presumably the dead man's brother

It appears that Richmond lived in Alamance county, but was employed on a farm just across the line in Guilford. Yesterday he started to work apparently in his usual good health. Later in the day he was found lying in the field dead

He was working alone and nothing is known of the circumstances of his death.

FIVE AND TEN-CENT STORE.

It Will be Operated by the Imperial Syndicate—A Representative Here.

The Telegram made a slight mistake Wednesday in announcing that the Kugler Syndicate would open a five and ten-cent store in Greensboro. The concern is corresponding with L. H. Sturgis & Co. and may locate here. It is the Imperial Syndicate that has decided to locate in Greensboro and open a five and ten-cent store. They will operate the store along the same line pursued in larger cities.

A representative of the syndicate is in Greensboro in search of a suitable location He will be here until he is able to secure a building.

Society People Looking Forward to Fair Week.

Greensboro will be a live place socially during Fair week. Society people are already talking of and arranging for the interesting social events of the week.

The Merchants and Manufacturers Association will give one or more receptions and there will be a marshal's ball in addition to a number of private functions.

There will be many guests here during the week, society people coming from all sections of the State.

Mr. Michaux Writes Poetry.

It is a surprise to the friends of City Clerk Michaux to learn that he is developing into a poet. The muse has come upon him suddenly and caused him to drop into most pathelic doggere His maiden effort is entitled "An Ode to a Calf," and is the sad story of the sudden transformation of a young and frolicsome bovine into a dead and unwieldly carcass. The subject of Mr Michaux's inspiration passed out of existence in the neighborhood of Piety Hill.

The Song of the Yukon River.

"There is something peculiar about the Yukon river that I have never heard of in connection with any other stream," said Captain Gray, who has been running boats on the big Alaska artery. "From the mouth of the Yukon up as far as there is any navigable water the stream is constantly singing. No matter where you are, there is a sound like that made by escaping steam. At first I used to think that maybe it came from the boiler or engines. But when we were tied up at night, with everything cold, the sound was the same. I have puzzled my brain to find an explanation of the phenomenon, but without avail. The singing goes on day and night.

"When you get up stream some distance, you can also hear the rocks rolling over the bed of the river, and this produces a most peculiar sound."—Portland Telegram.

Freaks of Explosions.

Gunpowder explosions have one remarkable feature. The bodies of persons killed in such an accident are always found without clothing, but frequently one foot will have the shoe on. This is true of horses also. If one of the feet is in the air and another on the ground, the shoe will be found torn from the foot that was on the ground and not from the other.

When men are killed in powder explosions, the foot that happens to be in the air when the shock came will be found wearing the shoe, while the other foot will be bare.

ALL ARE LIBERATED?

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL NOTICE.

PEKIN ENTERED WITHOUT FIGHTING

Li Hung Chang Has Received Notice of the Entrance of the Allies Without Fighting On Wednesday---Empress and Imperial Household Reported to Have Left With The Army and the Boxers on August Seventh---British Troops to Land for the Yang-tse Valley.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Aug. 17.—A special to the Journal from Berlin says that an official dispatch has been received by the German government from Shanghai, and announces that Pekin was entered by the allies without fighting, and that the envoys and all the foreigners at Pekin have been liberated.

A special to London from Shanghai says that the allies entered Pekin on the 15th, and that Yuan Sh Kai's troops have gone thence to Shensi to protect the empress, who, according to reports received there by local officials, left Pekin with Tuan and the Imperial army and Boxers on August 7th.

Another Shanghai special says that Li Hung Chang has received a telegram announcing that the allied forces entered Pekin Wednesday, 15th, without opposition. It says further that British troops will land at Shanghai tomorrow, and that all is quiet in the Yang-Tse valley.

HELIOGRAPHED FROM THE WALLS.

Shanghai, August 17.—In the advance from Ho-Si-Wu to Chung Chow, the European army easily scattered the troops of Generals Tung Fuh Siang and Sung Chung. The allies captured eight guns. The German guards on the walls of Pekin heliographed the allies at Tung Chow.

SIR ROBERT HART REPORTED AS LEAVING PEKIN.

Hong Kong, August 17.—Custom officers at Canton have received telegrams saying that Sir Robert Hart, the imperial commissioner of maritime customs, with his staff, left Pekin under Chinese escort. A courier will meet him as soon as he reaches the coast.

Preparing for Court.

Clerk of the Court Nelson is engaged in preparing the docket for the August term of Superior Court, which will convene Monday So far over 150 cases have been placed on the criminal docket, and this number will be increased considerably before the end of court. It is to be a two weeks' term, and the indications are that the trial of criminal cases will consume the greater part of the time.

Gone Back to His Blackstone.

Mr. C. G. Wright has opened a law office in the Wright building, in the room vacated by Sheriff-elect Jordan, where he is prepared to receive and serve a long string of clients.

Mr. Wright was licensed by the Supreme Court several years ago, and was for a time associated with the late Judge John A. Gilmer.

Suits Against Bank Depositors.

Mr. J. S. Cox, receiver of the defunct Bank of Guilford, has brought suits against a number of the bank's depositors, who, it is alleged, overdrew their accounts. Twelve of the cases came up for a hearing before Justice Pritchett today, but were postponed until September 5th.

WRECK THIS MORNING.

Fast Mail Goes into a Lake and Passengers Are Rescued Through the Windows.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Cleveland O. Aug. 17.—A fast mail on the Lake Shore, running between New York and Chicago, was wrecked this morning at Hay Bridge, seven miles west of Sanders, Ky.

Five cars left the track, and a part of the train, including a combination car, rolled into the lake. Fourteen passengers in this car were rescued through the windows. The express messenger and baggage men chopped through the car.

Postal clerks Wise, Spaulding, Greening and Beck were badly bruised.

The letter car was filled with water and the mail bags soaked and some of them lost. The track was torn up for three rods.

YOUNG MAN STARVED TO DEATH.

He Was Too Proud to Beg, and Too Honest to Steal.

Philadelphia Record.

Without money and too proud to ask his relatives to help him, Max Arensberg, having no home, died in the Children's Homœopathic Hospital, yesterday, from starvation. He was found exhausted by the police, at Fifth and Poplar streets, and hurried to the hospital. The unfortunate man lived barely long enough to tell his name and the story of his terrible sufferings as he wandered about the streets, slowly starving to death. He said he had not tasted food since last Thursday.

"I was too proud to beg and too honest to steal," exclaimed the unfortunate man. He was 27 years old, and came here two years ago from Germany. The police notified his relatives, who live in the city, and they will bury the body.

Mrs. Doak's New House.

Work has commenced on Mrs. O. E. Doak's 17-room house on East Washington street. It will be constructed of brick, with a cherry red front and will have all the modern improvements, such as baths, electric lights, electric bells, steam heat, etc.

Mrs. Doak will run the house as a family hotel. A prettier location (the Eckel lawn) could not have been secured.

The Tomato.

The tomato was known up to 1830 as a "love apple" and regarded with suspicion. It originated in Spanish South America and, being introduced into Italy from Morocco, was named "poma dei mori"—Moor's apple. The French called it "pomme d'amour."

After.

Willie—Pa, did Adam and Eve kick much when they was t'run out of the garden?

Pa—Well, no; not just then, but they raised Cain afterward. Now go to bed.

Making It Clear.

"On the feast of our patron saint the fire brigade will be reviewed in the afternoon if it rains in the morning and in the morning if it rains in the afternoon."

Soothing.

He—Look here, Matilde, I'm not quite such an idiot as I look!

She (soothingly)—No, dear; I'm sure you're not!

REV. PEGGANS OBJECTS.

Says He Is a Plain Gospel Preacher and Doesn't Preach About White Folks or Niggers Either Except In Specified Instances.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

The clipping which appeared in your paper some days ago from the "Boston Herald" without the corrections, badly misrepresents me in North Carolina among the white people, who contributed more to my education than anybody else, and who have assisted in every church effort I put forth in that State.

You will see from the corrections that I have never preached a sermon on "riots" on neither have I preached about white folks only when I speak of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Paul, Peter, etc. Neither have I preached about negroes only when I speak of "Lucifer" and his companions. I am nothing but a gospel preacher. Riots and politics have no place in my sermons.

The little preacher at the A. M. E. Zion church in your city, ignorantly dealt quite slanderously with me a few Sunday nights ago because he saw your comment relative to the white people building that church or assisting. He didn't know, poor fellow, he thought I said it, and told the people of his church that I said "the white folks built the church," or gave most of the money.

Judging from his former records of interpretations and otherwise, I hope the people who can understand will not be alarmed.

A Stone on Which Cornwallis Cracked Hickory Nuts.

Charlotte Observer.

In their search for historical relics Col. D. G. Maxwell and Mr. R. E. McDonald have found a rare stone. It is four feet long and two feet wide. The sides and ends are smooth except a few marks made by some implement like a hammer. The rock is on Mr. McDonalds' place and he thinks there is no doubt but what it was the same one on which General Washington left the carriage to shake hands with Col. Polk. Later it was used by Cornwallis to crack hickory nuts on. The stone will be sent to Colonel Maxwell and he will have it placed in front of the courthouse so that the future generations may see and bow to it.

Wants to Locate Manufacturing Enterprises in Greensboro.

The Telegram was today shown a letter from an attorney who wishes to know what encouragement Greensboro will give new manufacturing enterprises and what line of manufacturing will pay best. He has some clients who are anxious to invest money in paying manufacturing enterprises at a good point.

The attorney writes that the good impression he first formed of Greessboro on a visit five years ago has grown steadily, and that he believes this to be one of the best towns in the South.

Eight Retailers Arrested.

Just before every term of Superior Court a number of people are arrested for illegally retailing liquor. The officers work up the evidence and wait until a few days before court to make the arrests, in order to save trouble and expense.

This morning a number of warrants were placed in the hands of the policemen, and as a result eight persons were summoned to appear before the Mayor this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The cases were worked up by a Pinkerton detective, who has been here for some time.

A Cheap Rate to Raleigh.

The Southern has made a rate of one fare for the round trip for the unveiling of the Vance statue in Raleigh next Wednesday. The fare from Greensboro will be $2.65. Tickets will be sold on the 21st and 22d, good to return until and including the 25th.

The low rate and the convenient schedule will afford an excellent opportunity for Greensboro people to attend the unveiling. Persons can leave here at 7:55 a. m, reach Raleigh in time to witness the exercises and return at 8:25 p. m.

REVIVING OF THE ALLIANCE.

SOME PROSPECTS AHEAD OF IT.

Special Correspondence of The Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 17.—Articles of agreement were filed with the Secretary of State today for the incorporation of the Hillsboro Milling and Manufacturing Co., with a capital stock of $10,000

The Raleigh Fire Department will be placed on a paid basis and the volunteer system now in vogue here practically abandoned. It is thought that such a system will cost $12,000 a year.

The Raleigh tobacco market will be formally opened tomorrow. The sales of leaf tobacco last year amounted to about 1,500,000 pounds.

An effort will soon be inaugurated in the chamber of commerce here to erect a memorial arch at Pullen Park to the late R. S. Pullen, who donated the grounds for the park and the college to the city and State respectively.

It is learned that Dr. Cyrus Thompson contemplates defining his position nationally in The Caucasian. According to reports the Doctor will practically agree with Senator Butler, but he is thought to be weaker on Bryan than the Senator claims to be. Every Populist in the State is anti-Stevenson

Prof. W. J. Bragden, who declined the place as superintendent of Fayetteville public schools, will teach in the Raleigh Male Academy next session.

The A. & M. College opened today for the students who had back work to make up before they could enter the higher classes. The new members of the faculty have arrived.

Editor Poe, of The Progressive Farmer, and J. W. Denmark today returned from Hillsboro, where they attended the fourteenth annual session of the North Carolina Farmers' Alliance. The attendance was larger than for the past two years. The session closed this morning at one o'clock The following officers were elected: W. A. Graham, president; J. T. Paschal, vice-president; T. B. Parker, secretary and treasurer; J. C. Bain, of Cumberland, lecturer; J. M. Mitchell, of Wayne, assistant lecturer. Prof. Jno. Graham and J. W. Denmark were elected on the executive committee.

Part of the machinery in the shoe factory at Hillsboro has been removed and it will not be operated again for some time at least. Financially the order showed a gain of $2,000 over two years ago and $1,800 over last year as balance after paying all expenses. Among the resolutions passed was one thanking the press of the State for publishing the address issued by Messrs. Graham, Parker, Emery, Mitchell, Seawell and Fleming regarding the aims and objects of the Alliance and inaugurating a more profitable system of farming and protecting the agricultural interests. The address was highly endorsed by the body.

The two most important resolutions passed were as follows:

"Whereas the North Carolina Farmers State Alliance has been from the time of its foundation the earnest friend of education, and, whereas, there is now imperative necessity for greater school advantages within the borders of North Carolina than ever before, now be it

"Resolved, that the Legislature of North Carolina be and hereby is petitioned

"First. To levy a special tax, under article 9, section 3, of the State constitution, sufficient to run our public schools for four months, and that in addition the special appropriation of $100,000 be continued.

"Second. To appropriate a sum sufficient for the support of the State University, the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and the State Normal and Industrial Coliege upon a permanent basis, such appropriation to enable free tuition in these institutions to be offered to every white student in North Carolina.

"Third. To enact such laws as will compel the attendance of all children between the ages of 7 and 15 upon the public schools.

"Fourth. To prohibit the employment of children of immature age in manufacturing industries.

"Fifth. To establish reformatories for young criminals."

A resolution was passed on the death of ex-Governor Elias Carr, ex-president of the State Alliance, also resolutions, thanking President Winston of the A. & M. College for an excellent address before the body, commending and endorsing the official organ, The Progressive Farmer, and its non-partisan policy, and appointing a committee to confer with the A. & M. College authorities about the education at the college of practical and theoretical farmers.

President Graham was detained at home by illness in his family. The Alliance will put additional lecturers in the field and hope to double the membership during this year.

The alliance also decided to offer a number of premiums for agricultural displays at the State fair in October.

Editor Poe of The Progressive Farmer, when asked about the present and future of the order, said: "I never care to refer to the politics of Alliance officials, as such matters are not consider in their selection, but to show the falsity of the prejudice of some, it may be well to say that the president and trustee, the secretary and treasurer, and State business agent, and assistant lecturer are all influential Democratic farmers, while the remaining offices are filled with wide-awake farmers and educators, belonging to other parties or none. The prejudice against the Alliance is rapidly dying out and the out look for re-organization is very bright. Democrats, Populists, Prohibitionist and Republicans attended State metting, all worked in harmony and devoted themselves to the agricultural and educational lines along which the Alliance will work, and all will assist in the re-organization to be effected this fall and winter."

TREE WITH A HISTORY.

Charlotte Pythian

Every one who has ever visited Charlotte will remember the great oak that occupied a good part of the sidewalk on South Tyron street, in front of Mr. L. W Sanders residence Recently the city fathers decided to lay the axe at its roots. It is now no more. The age of the tree has been variously estimated from 125 to 175 years. It measured nearly six feet across the butt—a large tree for this section. But it is neither the age nor the size of the tree with which we are concerned. There is connected with it a history to us not without interest. Behind it the British soldier sought shelter from the unerring flintlocks of the Mecklenburg hornet, for it was on this very spot the British General Cornwallis met one of his warmest receptions, giving the people a name to which old Mecklenburg has since worn and honored on many a hard fought field, "A veritable hornet's nest." Twined about the roots of this giant oak, the bones of the hated Tory have rested for more than a century. The passing pedestrian has long enjoyed its felicitous shades, while generations of children have passed many gleeful moments in its shadow, musing over the glories of a gallant ancestry whose daring deeds are held in grateful remembrance by a granite shaft recently erected on an an adjoining lot, the site of Queen's Museum, 1776.

Before the days of railroads, Charlotte was on the direct road from New Orleans to Philadelphia. The passing of prominent persons was not infrequent. Aaron Burr had served his term as Vice-President of the United States and fought the fatal duel with Hamilton. He had worked his way into the great Southwest, where he was using his best efforts to carry out his treasonable designs for the formation of the Great Southwestern Empire. His audacity and daring had shaken the confidence of friends and aroused the indignation of foes. He was soon arrested and the long trip to Washington begun. On reaching Charlotte prisoner and captors stopped under this tree, hitched their horses while they rested and refreshed the inner man at a public inn, situated hard by. But Burr, having learned that there were ladies about the house, declined to go in. So Aaron lingered under the tree while his captors by turns satisfied the cravings of an empty stomach. Aaron's time would come a little further on. On the spot where the Baptist church now stands was a tavern where men such as Aaron Burr delighted to linger over the sparkling glass with the contents of which they washed down the delicious cakes for which the good cooks of Mecklenburg had won a widespread reputation.

"Thus endeth our little story of a tree under which there once stood a man charged with the blackest crime known to a nation, a man of all men, the most brilliant, possessing a manner at once fascinating and attractive, but lacking in those essential requisites that make the statesman and patriot—honor and integrity, sobriety and morality."

A MAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

AT HIGH POINT YESTERDAY EVENING

Mr. Guire Was Hauling a Load of Wood to the Monarch Mills, and on Reaching There His Dead Body Was Lying Across the Wood—Operator Paralyzed—A Lamp Explosion—Fell Through a Trap Door—Ice Factory Talked Of.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, Aug. 17.—Yesterday afternoon about half past five o'clock a horse drawing a wagon loaded with wood walked up to the Monarch Mills with the lifeless form of its master—Charley Guire—laying across the load. During the severe rain and thunderstorm Mr. Guire was coming in town with his last load of wood for the mill that day and when in a hundred yards of the mill lightning struck his body, killing him instantly. His hat was found in the road at the place where it is supposed he met his death. The skin on his body was scringed for a foot or more. Strange to say, the horse escaped unhurt. The body of Mr. Guire was taken in the Monarch Mill and doctors summoned immediately, who, on arriving, found life extinct. Afterward the remains were carried to the undertaking estabment of J. W. Sechrest to await the arrival of relatives for advice. Mr. Guire lived a few miles from town. He has been married, his wife having died not long ago. He leaves several children, brothers and sisters and relatives to mourn their loss. Messrs. Will and Bud Guire, who live near here, are brothers of the deceased. The remains were carried last night to the home of his father, with whom the deceased lived.

Mr. A B. Maboy, operator for the the Postal Telegraph Union nere, suffered a severe stroke of operator's paralysis yesterday. One side of his body and head are affected. His friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Last night about 9:30 o'clock five reports from a pistol were heard in the direction of the Episcopal church and in a few moments the cry of fire was given. On going in that direction it was found that the trouble was at the home of Mrs. L. J. Diffee. A lamp had exploded and the pistol was fired as a signal for help. Fortunately the damage was of no consequence.

Mr. Gurney Kirkman, while pulling some moulding from a rack at Snow Lumber Company's factory yesterday, fell through a trap door, sustaining painful though not serious injuries.

An ice factory for High Point is being talked to some extent. No doubt the plant will be forthcoming. When the business men talk on the manufacturing line they mean business.

Rev. Levi Rees, of the Friends church, preached an acceptable sermon at the M. E. Church last evening.

Mr. J. G. Pepper, of Winston, was here yesterday on businesss.

Rev. Dr. Rufus Weaver, at one time pastor of the Baptist church here, was a visitor yesterday. He is now stationed at Middletown, Ohio.

Mrs. Chas. Timmons, nee Mis Annice Wheeler of this place, is visiting her parents. Mr. Timmons will be here Sunday.

Mr. Bryan's Home Reception--Liberty Congress Endorses Mr. Bryan--Stevenson is Optimistic--Hill's Man Down.

Lincoln tendered a handsome reception to Mr. Bryan upon his return to his home at Lincoln yesterday after an absence of ten days. He reached the city at 3:20 p. m. and was met at the depot by a large concourse of people, who escorted him to his residence, and who after listening to a speech there and shaking hands with both Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, only dispersed to meet in the evening with many others in a reception given in the State capitol grounds, which partook of the nature of an official function. Mr. Bryan spoke at some length in his reply to the address of welcome, first expressing the appreciation of himself and Mrs. Bryan of the good-will of their townspeople of all parties.

The Liberty Congress of the American League of Anti-Imperialists yesterday at Indianapolis emphatically endorsed the candidacy of William Jennings Bryan for the presidency. The resolutions to that effect were read to the convention by Colonel Charles R. Goodman, of Massachusetts, who moved their adoption after stating that the entire committee of 25 had endorsed them. The convention, however, did not adopt the platform as submitted by the resolutions committee, without a prolonged and heated debate. Thomas M. Osborne, of Auburn, New York, leader of the "third ticket movement," offered an amendment to strike out the endorsement of Bryan, and his amendment was vigorously supported by several delegates, but when the previous question was ordered less than a score could be marshaled to vote against the Bryan endorsement.

The Chattanooga News yesterday published a letter from Adelai E. Stevenson, in which he says:

"I am glad to say that reports from the great Middle West are encouragiag. Today, in the face of the imminent peril which threatens the Republican character of our government, Democrats of whatever school of finance are one upon the overshadowing issue of this campaign.

"We have a united Democracy and day by day old line Republicans are seeking in our policy the only hope for the continuance of our free institutions. Many of the men who fought us bitterly in the past upon minor issues, are today our ardent friends. Many who love liberty and believe in the principles upon which our great republic has been reared, are rallying to our platform in such numbers as to justify the hope that the present administration will be thoroughly rebuked for its surrender to organized greed, plunging our country into unjustifiable war of conquest at the behest of concentrated wealth, which hopes to exploit distant islands under the guise of benevolent assimilation."

The Democratic State committee of New York yesterday voted to hold the State convention of the party in Saratoga on September 11.

Ex-Senator David B. Hill's candidate for temporary chairman of the State convention, Mayor J. K. McGuire, was defeated by a vote of 23 to 26.

FRIDAY AUGUST 17, 1900.

MR. BRYAN ON THE HAPPINESS OF OFFICE.

At an Irish picnic in Chicago Wednesday Mr. Bryan made a speech, opening with these words:

I do not want you to think that my happiness depends upon any public office within the gift of the people of this country. I have a higher ambition than to be President. The man whose happiness depends upon what others do for him may be doomed to disappointment, but if one's happiness depends upon what he does for others, he need not be disappointed. I hope you will credit me with the ambition which lies within the reach of every citizen of this land, an ambition which all can entertain, and which, to my mind, is a higher ambition than that of any office, and that is an ambition to do what I can to make this nation so great and so good that to be a simple citizen will be greater than to be kin in any other land.

This is indeed a very noble sentiment. Mr. Bryan is an idealist, and his idealism is often mistaken for visionary thinking. Idealism is very much to be desired, in our opinion, even in politics. We should very much prefer to have made Mr. Bryan's hopeful sentiment quoted above than that of the late ex-Senator Ingalls that "purity in politics is an iridescent dream." There are altogether too many prosaically unpleasant things in this world that we must all run against, and if we can lighten the shock by reflecting that, after all, there is something better ahead, it is well. And if we believe in that something better, never mind how ambitious our imaginings are, we are much more likely to make a reasonable advance toward them. Mr. Bryan's ambition to contribute his part towards making this nation so great and so good that to be a simple citizen in it will be greater than to be a king in any other country, is altogether worthy, none the less so because Mr. Bryan knows that result will never be attained.

We view with alarm the attempt to keep the Hon. Wharton Barker from being president in the following manner, which we find going the rounds of the papers:

A sensation has been caused by the discovery that Wharton Barker, the middle-of-the-road candidate for President on the Populist ticket, is inelegible for the office to which he aspires.

It is said that while superintending some improvements in Russia some years ago Mr. Barker was made "lord of St. Wenchelas" by the Czar. Before accepting the title he did not ask Congress to grant the privilige, and he is thefore said to be inelegible because he forfeited his citizenship by accepting the honor without permission of the United States authorities.

If this proves true, Mr. Barker must step down and out. Ignatius Donnelly would succeed him as candidate for President, some one else being chosen as candidate for Vice-President.

This is a scheme hatched in the brain of the Hon. Ignatius Donnelly for the furtherance of his own ends. It is just like him. He is the man who discovered that Francis Bacon was William Shakespeare, and we have no doubt that he is the very dog who followed the scent that discovered Candidate Warton Barker to be "Lord of St. Wenchelas." Mr. Donnelly is a dangerous citizen. Perhaps he is the chap who discovered that the republic is being converted into an empire.

It is astonishing to think that such a horrible affair as that told of by the Wilson Times could have happened in an enlightened State. The starving of a child to death, much less one's own child, is too revolting for even a brute to be guilty of. For the sake of humanity it is to be hoped that this report is not just as published.

With the passing of ex-Senator John J. Ingalls a picturesque figure passes from the stage. His greatest distinction was the skill and novelty with which he used his word-scimeter—ever drawing blood regardless of the cause for which he was fighting.

They Changed.

At a dinner party the other day a well known and deservedly popular dramatist took a lady down to dinner, neither knowing who the other was. As a subject the theater was started, as it is so often under similar circumstances.

"I can't think why they have revived that piece at the King's," the lady said. "I never liked it, and it's so worn that I should have done better than that?"

"Yes," the dramatist replied, "perhaps so. It was one of my first pieces, however, and I had not had much experience when I wrote it. Let's change the subject."

The lady was quite ready to do so and wished, no doubt, that she had known who her neighbor was. He presently said:

"Are you interested in the Fenton case?" speaking of a cause celebre that was in progress.

"Yes. I've read all the evidence," was the reply.

"He'll lose it, of course," the dramatist went on. "He never could have had the faintest chance from the first. It's a marvel to me how any lawyer could have been idiot enough to allow such a case to go into court!"

"Well," answered the lady quietly, "my husband was the idiot. Let's change the subject."

How He Dealt With Cowards.

In appearance Osman Pasha, the lion of Plevna, was handsome and prepossessing, looking a born leader of men. Like Napoleon, he was always distinguished by the plainness of his uniform. He had a queer habit of always, even in battle, carrying a pencil behind his ear, butt end foremost. He was taciturn, grave, abrupt and disdainful of forms and etiquette. He hated all foreigners, especially Germans, Russians and English. As for war correspondents, he entertained the utmost detestation of them, whence the deeds of his army were never chronicled as they should have been. He had a strange method of dealing with cowards. He would send for them and publicly box their ears. When really angry, his rage was terrible.

After the sortie and the surrender he was seen to be weeping tears of rage and shame. He was, it may be, a little touched by the Czar Alexander II, who came up to him and said:

"I congratulate you on your superb defense. It is one of the finest feats of military history."

Locusts Good to Eat.

All native African races eat locusts. With many it takes, and has to take, the place of, the British workman's beef and mutton. In a good many villages sun dried locusts are an article of commerce. The Sudanese are particularly fond of them.

Before they are eaten they are toasted. The wings and legs having first been torn off, the long, soft body and the crisp head form the delicacy.

I determined not to let my European prejudices influence me, but to give the dish of grilled locusts a fair trial. I thought how John the Baptist had enjoyed them plus wild honey.

The one I was eating was rather nice. I agreed with my Arab servant that, should the meat supply fall short, a dish of locusts would be a very good substitute.

By the time I was eating the second locust it seemed to me absurd why one should have a sort of lurking pity for John the Baptist's daily menu unless it be for its monotony, and I felt convinced that I should get tired of honey sooner than I should of locusts.—Current Literature.

Municipal Ownership.

Municipal ownership long ago passed out of the stage of theory and experiment, if, in fact, it ever belonged there. Centuries before America was discovered public ownership of public utilities was highly developed. The city of Rome 2,000 years ago possessed its splendid public baths, its superb aqueducts and other utilities owned and managed by the government.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

Telegram Children's Bank Contest Next Monday and Tuesday.

All children who present the six coupons printed this week, will be given a draw for a check. The largest check calls for $2, one calls for 50 cents, four call for 25 cents each, others call for dimes, nickles and pennies.

The coupons must be presented at The Telegram office next Monday. When a child presents them he will be allowed to draw a check from a box. Each check is numbered differently. Each number calls for a certain amount. For instance, a certain number will call for the capital prize, while another will call for only a penny, and so on.

No one will know what the numbers call for except Mr. Hodgin and Mr. Reynolds in the People's Savings Bank, who will cash them.

The checks will be drawn on Monday and presented at the bank and cashed on Tuesday.

Now, if any of the children do not understand fully all about the contest they must let us know. We want all the children to have checks.

Old Teeth Bought.

The following curious advertisement recently appeared in a London paper: "Old False Teeth Bought.—Many ladies and gentlemen have by them old or disused false teeth, which might as well be turned into money. Messrs. R. D. and J. B. ——, of —— —— (established since 1833), buy old false teeth. If you send your teeth to them, they will remit you by return post the utmost value; or if preferred they will make you the best offer and hold the teeth over for your reply. If reference is necessary, apply to Messrs. ——, bankers, Ipswich."

Who will get the 25 cent checks?

He Lifted the Ticker.

A London detective visiting Glasgow met a Scotch police official on the street and in the talk that followed spoke contemptuously of the ability of Scotch thieves as compared with the English experts.

Taking this as an aspersion cast on the astuteness of the Scottish police as well, the Glasgow detective was nettled and thirsted for revenge. Looking around, he espied a little fellow who had been dogging them and who was known as an expert pickpocket. Crossing the street he addressed the boy, and, pointing to the retreating figure of the English detective, he asked if he would know him again.

"Aye," replied the boy. "What aboot it?"

"I want you to lift his ticker. He says no one in Glasgow can relieve him of it."

"Ah, it's a' richt. See ony green?"

"Honor bright, Tommy! I'll give you half a crown when you deliver up the watch to me."

"Ye will? An what else?"

"Nothing else."

"Let's see, then. I'm to lift the ticker, an you're to pay half a crown for't on the spot?"

"Yes, that's it."

"An wad ye ken it if ye seen it?"

"I would among a thousand."

"Is that it, then?" And the boy, diving into his trousers pocket, displayed the identical watch and explained that he had secured it "while the gent was chaffin aboot the prigs."

Oriental Punishments.

The heathen Chinee deems the desecration of graves one of the most unpardonable of crimes, and, according to law, any man finding another in the act of robbing a graveyard may legally kill the villain on the spot without fear of consequences.

If a Turkish baker palms off a loaf of bread on you that is proved to be of less weight than it is represented, you can instruct a policeman to nail the defaulter by one of his ears to the door of his shop so as to be in full view of the passersby. The poor wretch will then be provided with a sharp dagger or knife, with which he can cut himself fee so soon as he can summon up the necessary courage required for the operation of self maiming.

In many of the oriental countries, where precious stones are looked upon as well nigh sacred objects, it is no uncommon thing for a jewel robber to be punished with death. In Tibet the penalty for falling from your horse when taking part in any military operations or public athletics is death.

One writer recalls how he saw a man shot in Montenegro for appearing at a review wearing a stained uniform.

Sacrificed the Mustache.

Thomas B. Reed at one time wore a mustache of a few straggling hairs, so often seen on the upper lip of extremely fleshy men. How Mr. Reed parted with his hirsute apology can best be told by a certain barber in the house of representatives who attended the gentleman's wants:

"One day the big man from Maine settled himself in the barber's chair and requested a shave. When the operation was completed, Mr. Reed straightened himself and asked, 'Have you any of that old fashioned pomade to wax mustaches with?'

"The barber hustled among his pots and jars and produced a French preparation in vogue a quarter of a century ago and then proceeded to wax the ends of the Maine statesman's few wirelike hairs.

"When the man of snapshot sentences arose and contemplated himself in the glass, he turned to the astonished barber and said, 'Cut this blanked blank mustache off, for you have made me look like a confounded catfish.'"—New England Home Magazine.

Shop Newly Equipped

I have just completed equipping my shop with power and machinery for doing all classes of repair, and new work. I am now amply prepared for doing heavy wood work, and also heavy forging. When in need of any kind of repairs very often the time saved by having it done promptly will pay for the same; and besides machinery does work better and cheaper than muscle.

I am now prepared to build on short notice any kind of a wagon you may want—a heavy dray, light spring wagon, or a farm wagon.

ELOPERS IN ATLANTA.

The Father-in-law Very Indignant and Says All He Wants Is a Sight of Dr. Wilkinson.

Philadelphia Record.

Dover, Del., August 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Elbert G. Packard and Mrs. Nellie Packard-Wilkinson are indignant at the utterances of Dr. Howard W. Wilkinson, who eloped with his wife's sister, Miss Josephine Packard.

"We will follow him to the bitter end," said Mr. Packard. "A detective is on his trail at this very moment, if he has not already captured him. Could anyone conceive anything more rascally? Oh, if we get that man back here you'll have a bigger sensation than this to write about."

NO DIVORCE SUIT NEEDED.

When asked whether Mrs. Wilkinson would apply for divorce, as suggested by Wilkinson in his interview given to "The Record's" correspondent, at Charlotte, N. C., Mr. Packard said: "Well, if we can get him in sight there will be no reason for obtaining a divorce."

MRS. WILKINSON PROSTRATED.

The little wife seemed even more prostrated today upon hearing Wilkinson's interview read to her. She sent down a note refusing to be seen by anyone. The Packard family are awaiting reports from the detective they have engaged in the hope that Dr. Wilkinson may be brought back to Dover.

The goods taken from the pharmacy here and shipped to Charlotte, N. C., to the Eagle Drug Company, were far more valuable than was at first estimated, and this may be found sufficient for requisition papers, since the goods were not all his. He stripped his showcases, taking sterling silverware, perfumery, choice Christmas goods and fine drugs.

WILL SPARE NO EXPENSE.

"How are you going to proceed against him by law?" Mr. Packard was asked this evening. "Well, I'll not answer that question. Suffice it to say that we will spare no expense to get him back here."

Taking up Dr. Wilkinson's remarkable interview in "The Record," Mr. Packard paused at the remark concerning Mrs. Wilkinson made by her husband; "There is but one thing for her to do—get a divorce so that I can marry her sister."

Pausing to gasp a moment, Mr. Packard held the paper at arm's length and exclaimed: "What an awful, awful thing for a man to say? His wife never accused him of loving her sister. In fact, she never suspected him, for she always had perfect confidence in him.

NOT EXPELLED BY FATHER-IN-LAW.

"As to his being expelled from my home, that is absolutely false, for he had perfect liberty here until last Monday week, when I took exceptions to an insult from him to my wife, and ordered him to apologize to her or stay away. It is equally false that my wife made his actions town talk and had the preachers pray with her.

"Another lie is that we imprisoned our daughter Josephine here or physically restrained her in any way. She had the best of treatment, and while we began to fear the man, we cared all the more for her."

"Will you forgive Miss Josephine?"

"Well, our taking her back into her former place certainly depends upon her repentant spirit. If she is infatuated with that man, as it appears now, there would be little use in forgiving and taking her back."

CHILDREN STARVED TO DEATH.

A Goldsboro special to the Charlotte Observer says that the Wilson Daily News of yesterday afternoon tells of the inhuman treatment and death of four children in Nash county. George Griffin and his third wife, tiring of Griffin's children by former wives, put the four little ones in an outhouse, giving them little or no attention, with the result that from hunger and disease they were prostrated and died. One of the children, weak and emaciated, went to its father in the field and was beaten with a switch, and on its return to the house fell from exhaustion, dying soon afterwards. Griffin and his wife have been arrested and jailed.

We'll Do That.

Charlotte News.

Greensboro has followed Charlotte's example, and bought the water-works. It is a good move, and one that the town will hardly regret. That is, if it can manage to keep aldermen, policemen and constables out of the water-works pond.

Look These Up.

In many educational journals nowadays we see pronunciation tests, catch words, etc., which may be valuable for technical use and yet not being needed every day in everyday talk are, like certain folks I know, chiefly interesting on public occasions. I should like to put down here a list of words that are very generally mispronounced.

Everybody knows how to pronounce them perhaps, but being such common little things, mere street waifs, with unwashed faces, nobody takes the trouble to "speak them fair." Now, to know what is our duty and fail to do it is a much more culpable thing than not to do it because we don't know what our duty is. So here they are, little, commonplace creatures, which are mispronounced every day:

Toward, again, bade, brooch, apricot, often, catch, hearth, aye, lien, greasy, sew, scare, years, idea, area, bouquet, ague, bleat, rise (noun), arctic, shone, route, gaunt, canine, juvenile, infidel, corporal, tete-a-tete, trousseau, amendment, restaurant, bicycle, were, recipe, frontier, depot, process, recess, romance, tirade, essay, tarpaulin, won.

The above are in common use and of common abuse. Some of them of course come from our sister, France, and people are likely to say that they are not expected to pronounce foreign words correctly.—Texas School Journal.

A Natural Lighthouse.

Stromboli, one of the Lipari islands, has constantly and usefully performed the function of a lighthouse for at least 2,000 years. Circular in outline, the island culminates in a conical shaped elevation, due to past volcanic agency, which rises to the height of 3,090 feet above sea level and is visible over an area having a radius of more than 100 miles. During the day masses of vapor are seen issuing from a point high up the mountain side, and at night successive displays of red light, varying in duration and intensity, somewhat resemble those of the gigantic flashlight on the coast. The flashes last from under one to over 20 minutes, gradually increasing to a ruddy glow and as gradually fading away.

This island is referred to by several very ancient writers as the great natural pharos of the western Mediterranean. Now it serves the same purpose for the constant stream of traffic passing to and from the French and Italian ports in the gulfs of Genoa and of Lyons, through the straits of Messina, for which Stromboli acts as a "leading" light. To such an extent is this the case that, although the other principal islands of the Lipari archipelago are marked by lighthouses, nothing of the kind is placed upon Stromboli.

A Dream That Came True.

"Talking about dreams," said Mrs. Smith as we sat around the parlor, "I once had a very strange experience. I dreamed that I was just stepping out of my house for a walk when a funeral passed by. A man with a cap marked nine and a red scar running across his forehead jumped from the hearse and, approaching me, asked, 'Are you ready?' 'No,' I replied, and with that I awoke.

"A few months later I was stopping in Chicago. I was on the top floor of one of the big houses and just about to step into the elevator when I remembered another thing I wanted to buy. I stopped and looked through my notebook. 'Down!' exclaimed the elevator boy, and then asked me, 'Are you ready?' 'No,' I answered, and the door closed.

"The next instant a great crash was heard, and the occupants of the elevator were dashed to an untimely death.

"The cap of the boy bore the figure 9, and he had a red scar running across his brow."—San Francisco Chronicle.

That Boy.

"Mamma, does money make the man?"

"I am sorry to say it does sometimes, Tommy."

"Money will make a man go anywhere, won't it?"

"I suppose so."

"If it was down in Cuba, would money make a man go to raising mangoes?"

"Don't bother me."

"Do monkeys eat mangoes, mamma?"

"I presume so. I wish you wouldn't talk so much."

"Then, if money makes the man go to raising mangoes, and monkeys eat mangoes, don't the monkeys make the mango go"—

Whack! Whack!

"Ouch!"—Chicago Tribune.

Buenos Ayres seems to have the largest "rocking stone" yet discovered. It is situated on the slope of the mountain of Tandil, in the southern part of the province, and measures 90 feet long by 18 feet broad and is 24 feet high. Its bulk is 5,000 cubic feet, and it weighs at least 25 tons. Nevertheless, it is so beautifully poised that a single person can set it rocking. When the wind blows from the southeast, the stone, which is pyramidal in form, sways to and fro on its foundation like the branches of a tree.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

One of Forbes' Scoops.

The following story illustrates the late Archibald Forbes' cleverness in getting his news reports in ahead of his fellow correspondents:

Here is a little scene: Time near midnight, after a hard day's work. Everybody done up. "Hello, Jones," says Smith. "There's Forbes already asleep, like brass." "By Jove, yes," quoth Jones (incipient snore from Forbes). "It would take ten horses to wake him up. I'll turn in," says Jones. "Time enough to get our stuff off tomorrow, eh?" "Right you are," responds Smith.

In ten minutes the wearied warrior scribes are dead asleep. Forbes rises cautiously, passing out like a ghost, sits him down in a hidden corner with the stump of a tallow candle, writes like a whirlwind for a couple of hours, finishes with the last flicker of his dip, saddles a horse, off he goes helter skelter across the country, gallops for an hour, delivers his letter, gallops back, is in bed by 4, sleeps this time "like brass" and no mistake.

"Hello, lazy bones," exclaims Smith at 7 a. m., shaking the sleeper. "Time to be up, old man," adds Jones. "What are you up to?" quoth Forbes drowsily. "We are thinking of getting our stuff off." "The devil you are! Why hurry? Let's have another snooze."

At last Smith and Jones get their stuff off and in three days discover to their bepuzzlement that they were 24 hours behindhand. Very provoking to Smith and Jones. But if Forbes had been the victim of the little ruse he would have been the first to laugh over it and to congratulate his successful competitor.

Couldn't See the Joke.

Once Offenbach graciously accepted the invitation of some friends to visit them in Etretat. As his hosts were waiting for him at the hotel, one of them, who was very intimate with the composer, suggested:

"Let us give him a rousing welcome."

The idea was taken up and developed. One of the party possessed a collection of old weapons. This was ransacked, and some two dozen young fellows were soon equipped as halberdiers. Another mounted a donkey and waved the flag of the club.

When Offenbach's carriage came in sight, a drum beat, the halberdiers presented arms and fireworks were set off from the balcony at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

As the composer stepped to the ground a venerable old man approached and presented to him the key of the hotel on a silver platter.

Offenbach, vain as a peacock and accustomed to all sorts of queer receptions, entirely failed to see the joke, though it was as broad as anything in "The Grand Duchess" or "La Belle Helene." He took it all seriously as a tribute to his genius, and, with tears in his eyes and in a voice that shook with emotion, he murmured:

"Gentlemen, this is too much, too much!"

In India, the land of famine, thousands die because they cannot obtain food. In America, the land of plenty, many suffer and die because they cannot digest the food they eat. GLORIOUS NEWS

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help: but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist. Guaranteed.

Made Its Own Funeral Toilet.

There are certain insects that have such a respect for Mrs. Grundy and are endowed with such an innate love of neatness and order that not even death, or rather decapitation, can prevent them from making one grand final toilet, which is clearly designed to give them a sedate and respectable appearance after death.

Dr. Ballion, a skilled entomologist, discovered this remarkable fact. "During one of my recent horseback rides," he says, "I frequently caught one of those large flies which annoy cattle and horses so much, and I promptly got rid of it by crushing its head. One day, instead of throwing the mutilated insect away, I placed it on the back of my hand and indolently watched it. For some seconds the insect remained motionless, but then, to my unbounded surprise, it moved its front legs forward to the place where the head should have been, and, after it had rubbed them nervously together, apparently in anguish, it began to brush its body and to smooth its wings with its hind legs. Under the gentle pressure of these limbs the body gradually became extended and the extremity curved, while the wings gradually changed their natural position and left the upper part of the body exposed. Meanwhile the hind legs continued to brush each other from time to time.

"Naturally I watched this extraordinary sight with great interest, and, in order to see the finale, I took the insect into my study, where it lived an entire day, spending the time at the ungrateful task of making its own funeral toilet."

Couldn't Resist.

An eccentric clergyman in Cornwall had been much annoyed by the way the members of the congregation had of looking around to see late comers. After enduring it for some time he said on entering the reading desk one day: "Brethren, I regret to see that your attention is called away from your religious duties by your very natural desire to see who comes in behind you. I propose henceforth to save you the trouble by naming each person who may come late."

He then began, "Dearly beloved," but paused half way to interpolate, "Mr. S., with his wife and daughter."

Mr. S. looked rather surprised, but the minister, with perfect gravity, resumed. Presently he again paused. "Mr. C. and William D."

The abashed congregation kept their eyes studiously bent on their books. The service proceeded in the most orderly manner, the parson interrupting himself every now and then to name some newcomer. At last he said, still with the same perfect gravity:

"Mrs. S. in a new bonnet."

In a moment every feminine head in the congregation had turned around.—Millinery Trade Review.

A Mystery of the Sea.

One of the most curious finds ever made from the sea was that which came to the Azores in 1858. The island of Corvo was then in the possession of two runaway British sailors. One morning there drifted ashore a craft which had evidently been frozen in the ice for a long time. It was an ancient and battered brig, without masts, bulwark or name, but the hatches were on, the cabin doors fast, and the hulk was buoyant. She had little cargo, and that consisted of skins and furs in prime condition.

No papers were found in the cabin, but it was figured that she was a sealer or trader, carrying a crew of 10 or 12, and that she had been provisioned for a year. The flour was spoiled, but the beef was perfectly preserved. She had been abandoned when frozen in an iceberg and drifted for years. The date of the letter found in the forecastle showed that the brig had been abandoned nearly half a century before. The two sailors got out the furs, which eventually brought them $4,000, and two barrels of beef and then set fire to the wreck. No trace was ever found of its name or owners.

Just an Ordinary Steak.

"When in Hamburg, we supposed we must do as the Hamburgers did, so at our first meal there we asked for Hamburg steak," said the woman. "Besides, we wanted to see how that viand would taste upon its native heath, anyway. But to all our requests, couched in our best scholastic German, the waiter shook his head. Like many another prophet, the Hamburg steak was apparently without honor in its own country. At all events, our waiter hadn't heard of it. 'Oh, well,' we said, 'just bring us an ordinary beef steak. But, lo and behold, when the meat was served there it was all chopped up and made into small cakes—what Americans call, in fact, 'Hamburg steak!' To Hamburgers a Hamburg steak was an 'ordinary steak.' "—New York Sun.

A Unique River.

Unique in its kind is no doubt the Mocona waterfall in the South American republic of Uruguay, situated about two miles below the mouth of the Piperi Assu river into the Uruguay. A great rock divides the river into two separate streams in such a manner that the right arm continues its flow on the original level, while the second arm falls gradually, so that it finally lies 22 feet below the level of the other arm. The bed of the upper part of the river is not very deep, and the water flows partly in a right angle to the river, thus forming a waterfall of more than two miles in length.

This unique view presents itself to the traveler, however, only during the winter, for in the summer, and especially during the rainy season, the Uruguay contains such immense quantities of water that both arms form one single stream, navigable even for the largest freight steamers. The fall has been known for centuries, and a description of it was published as early as 1691 by the Rev. Antonius Sepp, a missionary from Tyrol, who spent over 20 years among the Indians of Uruguay.

Man Compared.

If man grew as fast in proportion as a silkworm, he would be bigger than an elephant in two months. If he could navigate as fast in proportion as the average house fly, he could cross the Atlantic and back in the time it takes him to eat his breakfast. If he had as many eyes in proportion as the butterfly, he would have 40,000, to say nothing of an extra pair in his head for skylights. If he could spring as far in proportion as the spider, he could jump over the tallest tree in California, and it wouldn't bother him in the least. Man isn't the whole thing after all.—Freeport Journal.

Artificial Sponges.

Artificial sponges are made in Germany by treating pure cellulose with zinc chloride. The product swells in water and on drying becomes hard. But to prevent this action alkalihaloids are used. A pasty mass is thus obtained, which, being treated with rock salt, is then placed in a mold. When removed, it appears to be traversed by canals in all directions, and after having been washed in alcohol and water the sponge is ready for use.

Easy Choice.

"Did you have any trouble in selecting a name for the baby?"

"None at all. There's only one rich uncle in the family."—Richmond Dispatch.

A LIFE AND DEATH FIGHT

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Iowa, writing of his almost miraculous escape from death says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even it cost $5 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

SMALL MATTERS.

Interesting Items of News Gathered Up in All Parts of the City.

Mr. W. L. Crawford, who has been sick for some time, is thought to be improving.

Mrs. J. M. Hendrix and two children, who have been ill for some days, are improving.

Mr. H. G. Burton, of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, is confined to his room by sickness.

The private car of Second Vice President Finley, of the Southern, was attached to the northbound noon train.

Mr. Charles W. Lindsay, who has charge of Will H. Matthews & Co.'s branch store in High Point, is quite sick.

Mr. J. W. Stack, who has been confined to his home on South Elm street by sickness for a week or more, is improving.

Mrs. J. W. Fowler will shortly move her family from Charlotte to Greensboro. She is now in the city looking for a suitable residence.

A negro by the name of Headen struck Mr. Shirley Pearce with a rock as the latter was passing along the alley south of the McAdoo House today. Policeman Whittington arrested and jailed the negro.

The Gate City Band is arranging for a free concert on Thursday night of next week, to be given on some suitable and convenient lawn. The boys are practicing on some good music specially for the occasion.

That was a pleasant shower of rain that fell last night. It cooled the atmosphere wonderfully and made existence more pleasant. The rain appears to have been general throughout this section. It was badly needed.

The children are manifesting great interest in The Telegram Childrens' Bank. Every reader of the paper should allow some child to use his coupons. If he has no child of his own, he should give it to his neighbor.

Bray Brothers, tobacconists, have secured the services of Mr. J. R. Brown, of Reidsville, for the coming tobacco year. He will keep the books and be in charge of the prize room. He will enter upon his duties next Monday.

Rev. J. A. Hackney and Mr. C. B. Clegg were initiated into the mysteries of the Jr. O. U. A. M. last night. The degree team of Greensboro Council No. 13 did excellent work, to the satisfaction of all present, including the candidates.

The members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. in this city have been invited to attend a picnic at Missen Park, Winston, tomorrow, and a number of them will go. The members of the order in Winston-Salem will provide free transportation over the street car line out to the park.

Piccadilly.

One of London's most famous streets is Piccadilly, which consists of shops the ruffs, or "pickadills," worn by the and fashionable dwelling houses. The name is said to have been derived from gallants of James I and Charles I, the stiffened points of which resembled spear heads or pickadills. Some years before the introduction of these collars, however, "Piccadille" is referred to, and it is surmised that the collar may have been so called from being worn by the frequenters of Piccadilla House.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.
